Subject: APS a Monopoly?

Mr. Burns,

I have been so disturbed lately at the rate hikes from APS. As a single mom, every penny I have is budgeted. I pro-actively took action to make my A/C system more efficient so that my costs would be more manageable. Not only did my costs NOT go down, they went up!!!

I know you were the only dissenting vote with this latest hike...but I really do not understand how APS is allowed to function as a monopoly in this day and age! We are at the mercy of whatever they do. In my research, I read that it was not a monopoly because someone can choose to not have electricity. Really? In Arizona during the 119 degree summers...no electricity? Supporting my kids without electricity?

I really don't understand what options there are. Please give me your feedback. I appreciate your voting to help keep this "giant" in check...

Thank you,
